Neuralgia of the Face.

Capt. John Orr, Pearlington, Miss, has been a most intense sufferer from facial neuralgia for over twenty years. He has had seventeen operations performed on the nerves—that is, had them divided, cut emerge. But this never did him any good; the most excruciating pain continued without the least interruption. He often wished for death to relieve him of the inwished for death to relieve him of the in-tolerable pain. The best physicians falled to relieve him. They finally advised him to consult Drs. Hartman & Miller; at the St. Charles Hotel, New Orleans, which he did. They prescribed Peruna, and in less than a month was entirely relieved of the pain. Before consulting these doc-tors the least touch to any part of his face a new would cause the most fearing hair. or nose would cause the most fearful pain, while now he can blow his nose and wipe his face without the least fear of pain. The captain is grateful beyond measure for this unexpected and unboped for result. Mrs. Elizabeth Kenner,98 Laurel street,

Mrs. Elizabeth Kenner, of Laurel street, New Orleans, has been one of the greatest sufferers from Neuralgia of the face during the past year that we have ever heard of. From morning to night, and from night to morning, there was one constant, racking, tearing, burning pain, extending clear around her head and deep down through every muscle, tooth and hone in her face, No rest and no sleep. All physicians failed to relieve her, as well as all remedies. She was constantly in the most agonizing despair. She called on Dr. Hartman, who said the cause was chronic catarrh. He prescribed Peruna for her and now every pain has left her. She feels like another person and can eat

Chicago Tribune. The worst case of suspicion and jealonsy in the Northwest has just been cured at St. Paul, Minn., the patient being the wife of a well known traveling-man. She had noticed that her husband never brought his grip home with him, but always left it at the store when he came in from a trip, and in her jealousy she imagined it to be filled with love-letters, appointments of meetings with various fair ones, etc. A few days since, while her husband was on a trip through Dakota, she went down to the store, and, approaching the porter, said:

"John, you like to make a dollar honestly when you can, don't you?"

This drove much of the hard, stony look from her face, but she continued her search. She fished out three or four tracts, a bottle of pop, a Francis Murphy temperance badge, a bottle of Dr. Surepoy's corn-destroyer, and, beneath it all, in the bottom of the grip, a letter, sealed, stamped, and ready for the mail, addressed to "Miss Georgie Gray St. Paul, Minn."

The superscription was in her husband's well-known handwriting, and again the stony looked came into her eyes.

"O the wretch!" she cried in her anguish. "My suspicious are too well founded. Georgie Gray! O, this is too much! too much!" and she gave away to a flood of tears.

Neatly Caught, but Died Game.

Benator Butler, of South Carolina, and Senator Butler, of South Carolina, and Senator Garland, of Arkansas, are constantly playing jokes, more or less outrageous, on each other. Not long ago, Garland hit Butler protty hard and Butler "laid for" the Senator from Arkansas.

Knowing Garland's fondness for candy he procured some caramels and also some cubes of brown soap, which, when wrapped in thin tissue paper, precisely rosembled the caramels. Butler knew that if he tried to put the cubes of soap off on Garland he would fall, as the latter was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, of course, on the alert, so far as he was, in the succession of the course of th

Garland looked at the counterfelts wistfully for a moment—"Hum," he said finally, as he picked one up, "I've got something of a cold myself;" and he popped the prece of soap into his mouth. There was a crunching of his laws, and he saw that he was caught. Voorhees watched him out of the tail of his eye, as did a dozen others of the boys sitting around. Garland knew he was under fire; but he determined not to flinch. After chewing his soap for a moment he looked up at Voorhees and softly asked: "Do you eat many of these things when you have a cold?" As Garland kept on chewing and an almost imperceptible strip of lather formed on his lips, Voorhees became alarmed and went to Butler. "The fellow's actually eating that stuff! Why, it swill kill him, won't it?" "Ne-o-o-o." of drawled Butler, "I don't reckon anything ywill kill that man." Garland was game. He finished his soap; and no man could say that he looked as if he didn't enjoy it.

The Judge Saw the Point.

The late Chief Justice Bigelow, of Massachusetts, naturally hot-tempered, was riding in a car which did not stop at Quincy, where he resided, and, as it was passing by, he pulled the rope and the train was brought to a sudden stop. The conductor rushed into the car and demanded: "Who rung the bell?" "I did," said the Chief Justice. "Why?" "Because I want to get off." at which the railroad official indulged in some remarks which were not complimentary and hardly respectful. The judge complained to the president of the road, who promised to look into the matter. When they next met the judge demanded of the president whether he had reprimanded the conductor. "I spoke to him," was the reply, "Well, what did he say?" "He said that he was coming up some day to adjourn your court." The irate magistrate saw the point, and did not pursue the investigation.
